Mega Management, LLC, Atlanta, is pleased to announce that their client, author Rosemary Ellen Guiley, and George Noory, host of Coast to Coast AM, have signed a contract with Tor Books to co-author a book about spirit communication, Talking to the Dead.

Atlanta, Georgia – George Noory, host of the popular night-time radio talk show Coast to Coast AM, and paranormal expert Rosemary Ellen Guiley will co-author a book on spirit communication, Talking to the Dead. The book is scheduled to be published by Tor Books in hardcover in the fall of 2010.

“Talking to the Dead will be the first major book to thoroughly examine the developing technology of spirit communication,” said Guiley. “How close are we to a breakthrough of having devices that will enable real-time, two-way, provable contact, and what are the ramifications of that for society? Spirit communication is the cutting edge of our exploration into the afterlife and realities in other dimensions.

“George and I have worked together many times on radio over the past decade, and we share a strong mutual interest in spirit communication,” Guiley said. “Talking to the Dead is the perfect collaboration to take to the printed page. I’m excited to co-author this with George.”

“I first had Rosemary on the show in 1997 and she has lit up the phone lines from listeners ever since, I am sure we will do the same with this book,” said Noory.

Talking to the Dead will be edited by Bob Gleason, executive editor of Tor. The deal was handled by literary agent Steve Troha of Vigliano Associates, New York City.
